

INDUCTEES

Forty-one sports-humanitarians have been enshrined in the World Sports Humanitarian Hall of Fame including tennis great Arthur Ashe, major league baseball pioneer Jackie Robinson, NFL coaching legend Tom Landry, the NBA's David Robinson, and soccer great Pelé and the Harlem Globetrotters. Inductees are annually nominated by an international selection committee made up of former world class athletes, members of the media and other prominent individuals in sport.

2008: Warrick Dunn (Football), Vlade Divac (Basketball), Jimmie Heuga (Alpine Skiing)
2007: Kyle Petty (NASCAR), Dikembe Mutombo (Basketball), Edgar Martinez (Baseball)
2006: Steve Largent (Football), Harmon Killebrew (Baseball), Steve Smith (Basketball)
2005: Drew Bledsoe (Football), Louis Zamperini (Track & Field), Kathy Kusner (Equestrian)
2004: Jesse Owens (Track & Field), Jackie Robinson (Baseball), Babe Didrikson-Zaharias (Golf)
2003: Steve Young (Football), Harlem Globetrotters (Basketball)
2001: Johann Olav Koss (Speed Skating), Andrea Jaeger (Tennis), A.C. Green (Basketball)
2000: Mary Lou Retton (Gymnastics), Nate Archibald (Basketball), Kirby Puckett (Baseball)
1999: Tom Landry (Football), Wilma Rudolph (Track & Field), Tony Gwynn (Baseball)
1998: Pelé (Soccer), Jackie Joyner-Kersey (Track & Field), David Robinson (Basketball)
1997: Billy Mills (Track & Field), Kevin Johnson (Basketball), Mel Blount (Football)
1996: Bonnie Blair (Speed Skating), Kip Keino (Track & Field), Pat McCormick (Diving)
1995: Dale Murphy (Baseball), Roberto Clemente (Baseball), Julius Erving (Basketball)
1994: Chi Chi Rodriguez (Golf), Arthur Ashe (Tennis), Rafer Johnson (Track & Field)

www.SportsHumanitarian.com